No Ticket

Mike rode his bike to the train station. He was excited about his trip into the city to meet his friends at the movies. On the train ride, he watched trees, houses, and fields flash by. "All tickets, all tickets!" shouted the conductor. Mike opened his wallet. He searched his bag. He felt between the seats and scanned the floor in front of him, but found no ticket! [   ] Mike stood on the platform, with only enough money for the movie ticket.

No Ticket

Mike rode his bike to the train station. He was excited about his trip into the city to meet his friends at the movies. On the train ride, he watched trees, houses, and fields flash by. "All tickets, all tickets!" shouted the conductor. Mike opened his wallet. He searched his bag. He felt between the seats and scanned the floor in front of him, but found no ticket! The conductor kindly asked Mike to get off. Mike stood on the platform, with only enough money for the movie ticket.